These sequences were used in the scope of the invention for comparison with the cap protein derived from AAV serotype 9. The AAV capsid comprises three proteins vpl, vp2 and vp3, which are alternative splice variants. The AAV or the nucleic acid molecule is useful for preparing a medicament for delivering a transgene

The present sequence is the protein sequence of the vpl capsid protein adeno associated virus serotype 1 (AAV1). The invention provides the nucleic acid and amino acid sequences of novel AAV8 and fragments of these sequences. Each of these fragments may be used in a variety of vector systems and host cella. Among the desirable fragments are the caproteins, including vpl, vp2, vp3 and hypervariable regions, the repproteins, including rep78, rep58, rep52 and rep40, and the sequences encoding these proteins. The fragments may be used alone, in combination

The AAV sequence can be used in gene therapy or as part of a vaccine to treat disorders. The method is useful in detecting and/or identifying AAV sequences and isolating novel sequences that are identified. The sequences may be used e.g. for preventing or treating hyperproliferative conditions such as cancers and psoriasis, and other autoimmune diseases like rheumatoid arthritis, multiple sclerosis, diabetes, autoimmune thyroiditis, scleroderma or Crohn's disease. The invention relates to an adeno-associated virus (AAV) clade comprising at least three AAV members, where each member of the AAV clade is phylogenetically related as determined using a Neighbor-Joining heuristic by a bootstrap value of at least 75 % per 1000 isolates and a Poisson correction distance measurement of no more than 0.05. The methods and compositions of the present invention are useful for the prevention and/or treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, multiple sclerosis, sarcoidosis, diabetes, scleroderma, psoriasis, vasculitis, Crohn's disease, hemophilia, HIV, bacterial infection, cancer and ulcerative colitis. The present sequence represents the amino acid sequence of an adeno-associated virus protein.

levels in a subject. The method comprises delivering to the subject a recombinant adeno-associated virus (AAV) comprising a gene encoding a human apolipoprotein E (apoE) or apoA under the control of a regulatory control sequence which directs expression of the gene. The recombinant AAV also comprises a capsid protein selected from an AAV serotype (e.g. AAV) or AAVB) which preferentially expresses high levels of transgene in live. A therapeutically effective amount of apoE or apoA expression is obtained upon delivery of low dose of AAV. The method of the invention is useful for lowering total cholesterol levels in a subject, e.g. for treating atherosclerosis, and for correcting defects in lipoprotein. The present sequence represents a capsid protein of AAV serotype 1 (AAVI), which may be used in recombinant AAV vectors of the invention.

The invention relates to an adeno-associated virus (AAV) clade comprising at least three AAV members, where each member of the AAV clade is phylogenetically related as determined using a Neighbor-Joining heuristic by a bootstrap value of at least 75 % per 1000 isolates and a Poisson correction distance measurement of no more than 0.05. The methods and compositions of the present invention are useful for the prevention and/or treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, multiple sclerosis, ascoridosis, diabetes, scleroderma, psoriasis, vasculitis, Crohn's disease, hemophilia, HIV, bacterial infection, cancer and ulcerative colitis. The present sequence represents the amino acid sequence of an adeno-associated virus protein.

The methods and compositions of the present invention are useful for the prevention and/or treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, multiple sclerosis,

The methods and compositions of the present invention are useful for the prevention and/or treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, multiple sclerosis, earcoidosis, diabetes, scleroderma, psoriasis, vasculitis, Crohn's disease, hemophilia, HIV, bacterial infection, cancer and ulcerative colitis. The present sequence represents the amino acid sequence of an adeno-associated virus protein.

The present sequence is capsid protein VPI of one such serotype (AAV6). AAV6 can be used to contruct AAV viral vectors for use in gene therapy for a range of disorders: cystic fibrosis, cancer, AIDS, atherosclerosis, sickle cell anaemia, thalassaemia, blood clotting disorders and diabetes. The AAV viral vectors have increased transduction efficiency of a particular host cell as the AAV virion containing the AAV vector genome can be modified to express a capsid protein of an AAV serotype that transduces the selected host cell
